32 4-H Members Complete Second Exchange Event

By Martha B. Owens
Associate
Home Demonstration Agent

Thirty-two 4-H boys and girls throughout Jefferson County have completed the second phase of an interstate exchange program with Waseca County, Minn.

The 4-H group left for Minnesota, Monday, July 8, at 1:30 p.m. By starting so early, they were able to tour Chicago and pay particular attention to Lincoln Park Zoo, Chicago Museum of Natural History, Lake Geneva, Wis., provided ample space for the camp out-camp with lots of swimming. Two other features enjoyed on the way were a tour of Wisconsin Delta, and swimming at Anchor Bay. That night the host families met at the group at Waseca County line with police escort through the town of Waseca.

The week at Waseca provided an experience of living with a new family, learning different farm practices such as how to harvest garden peas for frozen food co-operations, and highlights of the many tours including a trip through the Mayo Clinic, St. Mary's Hospital, the Grain Exchange, Betty Crocker's Kitchen, Lake Okauchie, the Blythe Fry Food Plant, plus seeing the making of magazines, radios, sporting goods, etc. The many lakes provided entertainment for surf board, riding, boating and swimming.

The trip home included camp out - cook outs and a visit at New Salem State Park and Lincoln's Home. The 4-H members returned here were inspired to be better 4-H club members and return home after their 10-day tour to another state.

West Buchel Votes Property Tax Idea

At least there's one Utopia in Jefferson County - freedom from property taxes. The sixth class City of West Buchel has decided to not accept a city tax rate "at this time," according to R. J. Beckley, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Latest action revoked an earlier informal decision to adopt a small rate for general purposes, including salary of a town marshal, and their "goodies" Beckley added, adding that an amount in fees from peddlers' licenses and truck unloading in Louisville.

"Why should we let firms from Louisville send trucks out here to tear up our streets and unload their goods?" Beckley asked, adding that an unloading tax had been planned all along.

Wherever there has been progress, there has been a dependable group that had the cause very deeply in their hearts, the Rev. Dr. Hugh R. Peterson, administrative dean at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, said at the Homecoming Day services at the Jeffersontown Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon. The size of this dependable core is the measure of the church, Dr. Peterson said, adding that he is strong, the church must have a forward look. Don't be satisfied with good enough, the speaker urged, and never sell out.

The Homecoming service followed a basket dinner on the church grounds. Regular Sunday School and worship services were held during the morning.

At the homecoming service, those present remembered the day's quota of $4,000 for the new educational building.

County School Board To Buy Gas With City

The Jefferson County Board of Education has joined the City of Louisville and the Louisville Board of Education in the joint purchase of gasoline and fuel oil. The move, the first by the board, will reduce an annual estimated saving of more than $7,000.

County schools will pay 14.3 cents, plus 7 cents state tax, for an estimated 40,000 gallons of regular gasoline for the year. The price will drop if the market drops but is not due to an increase. The saving on 40,000 gallons at a 3 cents a gallon would be $1,200.

The county school system has been purchasing electric light bulbs jointly with other agencies for some time.

School board members, at their Monday night meeting, also authorized a $33,040 contract for construction of a sewerage treatment plant at Shryock School and voted to ask Fiscal Court to award a contract for a similar plant at the Wilder School on Herr Lane.

THE COURT SPEAKS; SO DO THE PEOPLE

We can't remember of a time when, in this country of ours, there was such a stir among self-appointed critics from the grass roots to the Capitol concerning the drastically revolutionary decisions being handed down by the high (and what appears to so many as haughty) Washington tribunal, the Supreme Court.

In true democratic, town meeting fashion, critics "rise to speak" from all walks of life their "pieces" relative to the new interpretations of the fundamental laws of the land, as given by Chief Justice Warren and his associates, with high position by that of "defending" the Constitution. Cutting across political lines, Americans are asserting individual opinions on behalf of the "good of the order" — as traditionally held.

Congress too has been stirred and many of its members, regardless of political cleavage, are seeking means and measures for stemming the judicial floodtide to the left, the New Deal and its efforts to revamp the highest levels of judicial thinking was a storm in our midst, the present situation may be regarded as cyclone. But, the furor notwithstanding, the Court goes on its judicial way breaking precedents, concerning itself among themselves in new interpretations of age old laws.

Some of the most seasoned and respected lawmakers in Congress have injected their staunch personalities into the controversial crusade to retain some of the basic principles set forth, by the Founding Fathers, in the framework of the legal system. One of the old hands of the Senate, a statesman of wide renown, Senator Harry Byrd (D-Va.) has been the most outspoken among his colleagues in arraignment the Supreme Court. His boldness to challenge the august body, and particularly Chief Justice Warren, has doubtless encouraged others to take their stand with the conservatives, for the Constitution in its original meaning.

Although the Court has spoken, the voice of "the people" is still being heard. Who shall have the last word?

WIDE ACCLAIM FOR VETTER'S BOOK

Jefferson County's affable and enterprising recreation director, Charlie Vetter, is receiving favorable comment from extended sources on his latest, "A New Horizon of Recreation." We note in the August Rotary, Rotary International's official magazine, quite a lengthy reference to this new treatise on the newest ideas and current practices in providing organized recreation for youth.

The Rotary reviewer emphasizes that the latest Vetter contribution to the cause of wholesome play, "in a group of books on various aspects on recreation, one which illustrates Rotary inspiration and leadership," Charlie is a member of the Shively Rotary Club.

By way of endorsement, "The book seems to be outstanding for both range of vision and down-to-earth practicality. It is at once an exciting record of what one community has done and an inspiring sketch of what other communities can do," says the commentator. Elaborating further, he goes on to evaluate as follows:

"One of the fine things about Charles Vetter's book is its richness in actual details of step-by-step procedure. He gives the actual wording of documents of organization, the names of board members, itemized accounts or receipts and expenditures. He shows how the Jefferson County program started on a very small scale, and traces its growth from community to community and activity to activity. Hand in hand with this richness of detail is an outstandingly sensible and candid discussion of problems that arise, of policies to be developed, and of steps to be taken. Not a formal hand book but a man-to-man record of actual experience, this book offers highly fruitful reading... (for those who are aware of community needs at present unfulfilled, and for those who are less wondering what can be done.)"

Another good boost for this community's recreation leaders.

RELIEF PLAN FOR SMALL BUSINESS

Over the years the problems of small business have been discussed and debated in the utmost detail, and from every conceivable point of view. Various legislative programs have been proposed to improve the position of small business enterprises in the economy as a whole. These programs almost invariably put tax reforms of one kind or another at the top of the list.

Now David M. Molthrop, a director of the Conference of American Small Business Organizations, has written an unusually interesting study of business systems, existing and proposed, as they affect these businesses. Most of the proposals, in his view, do not adequately meet the problem. Some deal with technical and relatively minor matters. Others would provide relief only to small groups, or would simply shift tax burdens to other business, or would introduce additional complex gimmicks into already complicated tax law. Others still would "provide immediate relief for the smallest corporations, but at the expense of growing corporations."

In Mr. Molthrop's view, the only bill which has been introduced in Congress which really meets this basic problem, by providing a realistic means for reversing the trend and re-establishing a moderate and reasonable level of income tax rates, is H. R. 6452, generally known as the Siskind Bill of its sponsor — Representative Siskind of Connecticut.

The fundamental principle of the bill, as expressed by the Representative himself, is to use "revenue growth to reduce excessive income tax rates instead of to support increased government spending." It would reduce the taxes on individuals and businesses in all the brackets. Individual tax rates now go to 91 per cent and corporation rates to 52 per cent. The bill would cut these top rates to 42 per cent over a five-year period, with a provision that this can be extended over nine years if necessary to avoid an unbalanced budget.

The Siskind reforms, of course, are not confined to small business. They would work to the benefit of large business too, and to the benefit of every taxpaying family. But it is interesting that a leader of organized small business should find that this is the best of all programs yet offered — and superior in every way to programs and palliatives which take a limited and narrow view of the tax problem.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH
Mr. and Mrs. Don Sieb will be going to Hazel Green around the first of September to take used clothing, ties, hats, shoes, costume jewelry, etc., to the Joe Em Down Store. They also want books for the bookmobile, library and store.

The clothing must be cleaned and have all the buttons on. Anyone wishing to donate to this worthy cause may bring articles to the church before September 1.

The C.W.F. members are collecting coupons which are found in Gold Medal Flour and are redeemable for cash by church groups only. It will be greatly appreciated if any of these coupons are turned over to Mrs. Robert L. Johnson.

Our new Christian Women's Fellowship groups in the church, Group 1, Mrs. R. P. Gregory, chairman, meets at 2 p.m. on the fourth Thursday of each month; the Friendship Circle, Mrs. Morton Thomas, chairman, meets at 7:45 p.m. the third Wednesday; and the other group, Mrs. Don Sieb, chairman, meets at 7:45 p.m. the third Wednesday.

Every woman who is a member of the church is a member of the C.W.F. and is invited to attend any or all meetings of these three groups whenever meets at the time most convenient for her.
